

COMPANION CONNECTION SENIOR CARE EXECUTIVES TO WRITE MONTHLY MAGAZINE COLUMN ON SENIOR CARE, HEALTH ISSUES

-- Column Will Run in New Jersey Voice Magazine --

David Goodman and Frank Esposito, President and Vice-President, respectively, of Companion Connection Senior Care, will write a monthly column on senior health and caring issues for New Jersey Voice Magazine, a regional lifestyle publication covering much of New Jersey.

“We take our new role as columnists very seriously,” said Goodman, who founded Companion Connection Senior Care in 2003. “Our goal is to provide information to the readers of New Jersey Voice on the key issues that affect both seniors and their families, and to do it in a professional, highly readable and unbiased way.”

Earlier columns written by Goodman and Esposito have already appeared in the magazine on such subjects as long-distance caregiving and talks that adult children need to have on a range of topics with their elderly parents.

New Jersey Voice reaches approximately 60,000 affluent residents who reside in New Jersey, and is also available at Barnes & Noble book stores, food retailers, drug stores and other outlets selling periodicals. It is published by Laurinda Publications.

Goodman and Esposito are also the co-hosts of “Focus on Seniors Radio,” which appears on WS radio, the Internet’s #1 talk radio station.
